GOSSIP OF WALL STREET.

The Weakness Spreads. The market was subjected to another assault upon the standard rails and also to a rather general selling movement throughout the list. The selling of Union season. These crops suggest an exportable surplus of close to 375,000,000 bushels, with allowance made for depleted stocks of old wheat among the millers and moderate damage to the spring wheat crop to its harvest date. Last season the United States exported about 330,000,000 bushels.

Canada out the list. The selling of Union Pacific was the feature of the day and probably did more than anything else to cause new apprehensions regarding the effect of the weakness of the standard rails upon the general speculative position. Up to yesterday the breaks in the high priced rails had been looked upon with a fair degree of unanimity. SOME BEARISH OPINIONS

Last season the United States exported about 33.,000,000 bushels.

Canada on its present crop outlook may have 150,000,000 bushels to export, against the unusual small total of about 60,000,000 in the past season. It would seem premature to estimate exportable surpluses of foreign crops, but figuring very conservatively, Russia might have 85,000,000 bushels; Argentina, 65,000.

The break extensive decline that has marked the sagging tendency of the past week. The break extended about 25 points and prices closed easy around practically the lowest figures. The slump that has taken place since the issuance of the Government report on July 1 is a matter of about 60 points.

Selling became very pronounced along in the middle of the afternoon and in the middle of the afternoon and should of the middle of the afternoon and should of the sound of the consideration of the confidence that is felt by the speculative party in the future of these issues. But the old timers reply to all arguments that they absorb 90,000.000 bushels, while the countries are roughly 655,000, and the future of these issues. But the old timers reply to all arguments that they never saw a market divide itself upon the past season. It would seem price about 33.,000,000 bushels, in the future of these issues. But the old timers reply to all arguments that they never saw a market divide itself upon the past season. It would seem price about 35.,000,000 beachels. The break in the high priced rails had been looked upon with a fair degree of unanimity. It was pointed out that in addition to foreign selling there were reasons at the moment why there should be no keen appetite for railroad shares of this class. The break in the rails should not greatly disturb the general market because the speculative position in this class of stocks had been looked upon with a fair degree of unanimity. It was pointed out that in addition to foreign selling there were reasons at the moment why there should not greatly disturb the speculative posit never saw a market divide itself up into two parts before and never expect to see it again.

Corn—The Government report of the chief best arguments, which are more in a mood to admit the efficacy of the chief best arguments, which centre around the huge supplies likely to be carried over from the present easen, eventually to be carried over from the present easen, eventually to be carried over from the present easen, eventually to be carried over from the present easen combined with the prospective easen from the new crop.

Even the South is bearish and sentiment from the cotton belt is fairly well summed up in the following message from New Orleans:

"With seriousness of export situation and inability of spot brokers to contract for against the companies of the company and received the another of the company in the northern belt is very late for a date of the best results. The increased to make the inability to needlate increased sales. Exporters have booked very little business and several firms which ordinarily ship thousands of bales to transactions. The export outlet is badly clogged as a result of the Birtish blocks also on the present of the company in the proposition of the sale of of the mitted, however, that the Liverpool stock of cotton is comfortably large in view of such a contingency, as accumulations are nearly double the usual holdings at this season of the year.

Unfavorable crop news has very little effect upon sentiment. The feeling is growing that the question of prices will not be settled so much by the size of the current crop as by the demand, which is seriously affected by a wide variety of influences.

Market sentiment in fact is very well summarized by Theodore H. Price in the introduction to his weekly analysis of the cotton market in the latest issue of Commerce and Finance. Mr. Price says:

"The size of next year's crop seems to have become a negligible question, as compared with the problem of moving the cotton that will shortly be coming to market. The Government report, which is variously construed as individual of from ten to fourteen.

Wheat ing est est ing close that the late deal-ings.

Vork on the basis of the late deal-ings.

Oats—In sympathy with other markets a strong tone was noted. Some of the conflict.

Oats—In sympathy with other markets as those some of the large shorts and exporters were shorts and exporters were construed as more bearish than looked for, the crop figures were construed as more bearish than looked for, the crop being placed at 1,395,000,000 against 1,141,000,000 a year should be passed to increase in the past few weeks. For the month of June the dealings were heavy in comparison with the normal scale of activity in that stock and in comparison with the small turnover in the whole list. The price has held up well. There has been nearly list that stock and in comparison with the normal scale of activity in that stock and in comparison with the normal scale of activity in that stock and in comparison with the normal scale of activity in that stock and in comparison with the normal scale of activity in that stock and in comparison with the normal scale of activity in that stock and in comparison with the normal scale of activity in that stock an Express Company have been coming to market for some time. The express company last year owned some $4,000,000 par value of the stock.

Borrowing Demand.

A big borrowing demand for stocks is reported. The demand is of course heaviest for the standard rails, which have lately broken badly. Some of these have been lent at a small premium. The inference generally drawn from this development is that there has been built up a large short interest ir these stocks. The short side of the rails fias undoubtedly become more popular, not only on the floor but in the commission houses. Some speculators have taken this position as Open High town ing in the commission houses. Since as including est. est. ing in the commission houses. RACHEL LEIBEL. men's furnishing goods, 304 Fourth avenue, made an 58-signment to Daniel Drangle. A petition in bankruptey was also filed against her as Ray Leibel by creditors. Liabilities said to be $10,000, assets, $1,000. Mrs. Rachel Leibel is the wife of Jacob Leibel, who was a dealer in men's furnishing goods at 304 Fourth avenue and who has been in the bankruptey courts twice. The last petition filed against him was in October 19, 1914. He made an offer of compromise at 60 cents on the dollar, which was referred to Seaman Miller, referee in bankruptey, and is still pending. On the first petition on December 19, 1907, he made a composition of 50 cents on the dollar.

BERT E FLOYD, mechanical dentist, 257 Eighth avenue, filed a petition in bankruptey liabilities, $1,791, assets, $137. He told the court that he had been suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis for three years, which caused him to leave work from two to four months every year, and that for the past year he had been troubled with fixula. He said that he had become impoverished and was unable to pay the fees.

HANS E Graban, 72 Washington Square South, a designer and maker of small metal devices, filed a petition in bankruptey, liabilities, $1,263 assets, $2, consisting of a patent for a gem setting machine, and a half interest in a patent can spout.

NEW YORK, July 3.—The storm which was central over Nebraska and Iowa on Wednesday moved eastward to a central over West Virginia yesterday, causing thunderstorms and general rains over the southern lake regions, the Ohio Valley, middle Atlantic States and New England.

The rainfall was heavy at a number of points in the Ohio Valley.

The pressure was moderately high over the north central and the Gulf States and generally low elsewhere. Showers occurred in the Northwestern States, but in the Southwest generally fair weather prevailed.

It was warmer in the Southern and the Atlantic States, except New England, and cooler in the north central States and lake regions.

In this city the day was cloudy with showers in the afternoon and evening; little change in temperature; wind, light to fresh southeast; average humidity, 85 per cent.; barometer, corrected to read to sea level, at 8 A. M., 29.85, 3 P. M., 29.57. The temperature in this city yesterday, as recorded by the official thermometer, is shown
